Rockingham Male Chorus

The Rockingham Male Chorus of the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia is a group of volunteers from a variety of careers who enjoy singing the gospel of Christ. Since 1966, "The Singing Men," as they are known, have given concerts from Iowa to Rhode Island and from Canada to Florida.

David MacMillan, the chorus director, is a graduate of Shenandoah University, Winchester, Virginia and recently retired as a music teacher.

Kathy MacMillan serves as accompanist.

The Rockingham Male Chorus governance is by a board of directors elected from the chorus by the members.

Any success the chorus has experienced in leading audiences in worship is due to the blessing of God and the commitment of the many men who, through the years, have responded to the call to sing God's praises. The men not only meet weekly for rehearsals but cover their own travel expenses as well. Rehearsals are Tuesday evenings at 7:30pm at Lantz Chapel in Bridgewater.

Chorus members always look forward to worshipping with congregations as we proclaim God's love and praise through our singing.

If you would like to support The Rockingham Male Chorus' ministry through music, please purchase a CD or make a donation to "The Rockingham Male Chorus."
